ZIGMAN ABKTEKUSKI OF MORRICON COUNTY IS VICTIM SUNDAY EVENING

WAS A FARMER RESIDING NEAR THE OLD TOWN OF PLATTE

The first casualty recorded in Crow Wing county during the present hunting season, occurred on Sunday evening, when Zigman Abktekuski, of Morrison county, was drowned in Platte lake while hunting ducks.

According to reports, Abktekuski with a companion, John Lebpenski, were on the lake in a duck boat, which took water on one side, and when the men tried to right it by throwing their weight to the other side, it capsized.

Lebpenski made his way to shore, but Abktekuski was either unable to swim or was weighed down with his hunting clothes, and drowned immediately. The accident occurred about dusk Sunday evening, and the body was recovered several hours later in about 10 feet of water. The searching party was greatly hampered in its work on account of darkness.

Abktekuski was a farmer residing near the old town of Platte, in Morrison county, and the remains were taken to his home. He leaves his wife and several children. The funeral will be held from the home on Tuesday. Lebpenski is a resident of Little Falls.

PEQUOT HUNTER SHOOTS SELF ACCIDENTALLY

Vernon Lundeen, age 17 years, of Pequot, is at St. Joseph's hospital suffering from a self-inflicted gun shot wound which occurred accidentally while he was hunting this Monday morning.

Lundeen was in a duck boat and was picking up his gun by the muzzle, when the hammer of the weapon caught on the seat of the boat. The gun was loaded and the charge tore the muscles from his left forearm, lacerating that member terribly.

Fortunately two doctors from Iowa were hunting nearby, and they rendered first aid assistance and then brought the injured boy to the Brainerd hospital for treatment. He is reported as getting along as well as can be expected.

GEORGE LIESEN IS SHOT IN BACK

George Liesen is in a very critical condition at St. Joseph's hospital as the result of a hunting accident which occurred at Big Sandy lake, north of McGregor, in Aitkin county, on Sunday. Liesen is said to reside in the southwestern part of the state.

The accident occurred while Liesen and his brother, Paul, were in a duck boat on the lake. George was in the front end of the boat and his brother was in the stern loading his shotgun. The gun accidentally discharged, the shot entering Liesen's back.

He was rushed to Brainerd and is being given every medical attention. According to the physician in charge, the injured man suffered a relapse this afternoon and it is feared that the accident may prove fatal.

YOUNG BURGLAR OF GOLD COAST IN MILWAUKEE, TAKEN

BAFFLED POLICE 6 WEEKS WITH HIS SPECTACULAR RAIDS

YOUNG MAN TAKEN IN CUSTODY IN MINNEAPOLIS, TRYING TO DISPOSE OF LOOT

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 5.—(UP)—Roy Fredden, 21, who baffled local police for six weeks, during which he staged spectacular raids in 10 homes of the Gold Coast district, has been captured.

The young man was taken into custody at Minneapolis where he attempted to dispose of some of the loot. He was turned over to Milwaukee authorities and after some hours' questioning, confessed his guilt.

According to his confession he left his rooming house here last night to join his companion, master burglar, and drove with him to the heart of the Gold Coast district. While the master burglar pried open a window or door to gain entrance and emptied the rooms of cash, jewelry, silverware and clothing, Fredden waited outside in the automobile and acted as a lookout.

During the day, Fredden said, he enjoyed a life of ease and pleasure.

While attempting to dispose of some of the loot among women of the underworld in Minneapolis Fredden was taken into custody. He admitted he had arrived from Milwaukee. Detectives here were notified and immediately went to the Twin Cities and brought him back.

By his own admission Fredden's career included the burglary of ten homes of loot valued at $4,000 and theft of an automobile.

COL. MITCHELL TO BE APPRISED OF CHARGES MADE

WAR DEPARTMENT OBJECTS TO SENSATIONAL SAN ANTONIO STATEMENT

CHARGED "ALMOST TREASONABLE CONDUCT" ADMINISTRATING AIR FORCES

By WILLIAM J. McEVOY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 5.—While another group of navy pilots are registering their protests against the existing naval aviation system investigation to the aircraft board today, Colonel William Mitchell will be apprised formally of the charges upon which a court martial will be based.

Mitchell will report to the inspector general of the army and be served with a copy of exceptions the war department has taken to his sensational San Antonio statement. He will again be asked to avow or disavow the statement charging "almost treasonable conduct" in administration of the air forces.

Under the procedure Mitchell may make an oral reply immediately or request a delay to obtain counsel and prepare an answer.

After having established that the fiery colonel made the statement which Mitchell will again admit, the inspector general will submit a report to Acting Secretary of War Davs for the machinery of his court martial to be set in motion.

The trial will be held here.

The air board will hear further criticism of the existing naval air system from about 10 navy bird men. While there may be some difference in opinion over what changes should be made, all are expected to condemn the system now in force.

Tomorrow Major General Mason Patrick, chief of army air service, and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, navy air head, will be called for further testimony and cross examination.

COL. MITCHELL CALLED TO WAR DEPARTMENT

Washington, Oct. 5.—Colonel William Mitchell was called to the war department this morning and informed offically of charges upon which his court martial will be based.

The air officer who started the furore over the nation's air defense, was received by Colonel G. A. Nugent, acting for Inspector General Hellmich and they went into conference.

Mitchell refused to comment on what occurred during his conference with General Nugent.

"I have nothing to say," Mitchell said. "You will have to ask them."

According to army procedure, Mitchell was presented with an abstract of the charges involving his possible court martial. He was probably asked if he had any reply to the charges or if he wished to present an affidavit in answer.

It is indicated if the inspector general's office finds it necessary to court martial Mitchell under the charges a recommendation for this procedure will be made through the secretary of war. No officer between the president, who is commander in chief of the army, and the corps area commander, can call a court martial in this case, it was pointed out.

While Nugent was informing Mitchell which portions of his San Antonio statement the department took exception to the air board which was created after he set up a cry against the present system reopened its hearings.

A reorganization of the existing naval air service to provide for a separate budget and control of the air branch by flying officers was recommended to the board by Lieutenant Byron J. Connell, pilot of the PN9-1.

Connell said his views on possible improvements were in line with those of Commander John Rodgers, leader of the unsuccessful Hawaiian flight.

"A separate budget," sad Connell "would permit the air service to obtain the funds it needs. Development has gone on very well, but a separate budget would enable the bureau of aeronautics to follow the actual cost of aviation. This would afford better advancement.

"Aviation must have men in control of its carriers and squadrons who have had air experience."

Connell told of the Hawaiian flight and said the PN boats "stood up remarkably well."

$20,000 REWARDS OFFERED FOR RETURN OF STOLEN GEMS

St. Paul, Oct. 5.—(UP)—Rewards totalling $20,000 were offered today for return of gems stolen from a diamond salesman in a jewelry store here Saturday.

A private detective agency representing the Jewelers' Protective association made one of the offers and the jewelry store in which the robbery occurred another.

Police learned three men instead of one, as first reported, participated in the holdup. Jewels valued at $150,000 were taken. R. Dreyfus, New York, was the victim.

"CAKE EATER" COLLEGIAN IN RIOT OF CRIME

FRED GOETZ, FORMER FOOTBALL PLAYER AND TRACK STAR, SOUGHT BY POLICE

WOUNDED AND CAPTURED BANDIT IMPLICATES FORMER COLLEGE STUDENT

Chicago, Oct. 5. — (UP) — Fred Goetz, former University of Illinois football player and track star, and his pal, known as "Hymie," eluded police early today after a thrilling raid on a North Side hotel.

Goetz and his companion are wanted in connection with the attempted holdup of Dr. and Mrs. Henry B. Gross here Saturday night.

The physician wounded one of the bandits and they in turn killed Barney Hernandez, who was in the automobile with the physician. Dr. Gross was wounded in the left shoulder.

The wounded but captured bandit, Roger Bessmer, implicated the former college student but after a spectacular raid on the hotel, police announced Goetz had eluded them. His avowed sweetheart, however, was arrested. She may give some clue to Goetz' whereabouts.

Police said they had established that Goetz is the "cake eater" type of collegian but that he has a criminal bent. Bessmer said Goetz wanted Mrs. Gross' jewels so that he could sell them for enough to "buy a good defense" when he came to trial for an attack recently on a seven year old girl.

A crowd of 3,000 persons gathered outside the hotel while police guarded all exits and searched every room. The raid was carefully planned, 50 policemen rushing in on the notel from all directions at a given signal.

HEART OF LOVER PROVED ADAMANT AGAINST 18 BULLETS

St. Paul, Oct. 5.—(UP)—The heart of a lover, broken by the jilt, but adamant against bullets, still beat today in the breast of Harry Collett, 18.

Collett resolved to end it all when his dance hall sweetheart, charlestoning with another, spurned his proferred partnership in the dance.

Drawing a tiny 22 caliber revolver the unrequited lover fired 18 shots, his damaged heart the target. Three drew blood.

Police say it is the most amazing piece of poor aim on record. Hospital officials report the patient very slightly injured.

NONPARTISAN POLITICAL TREND TAKEN BY LABOR

AMERICAN FEDERATION HARKS BACK TO ITS OLD POLICY

REFUSES TO ALIGN ITSELF WITH ANY PARTIES HEREAFTER

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 5.—The American Federation of Labor will enter political campaigns this fall throughout the country but will keep away from third party movements.

Harking back to its old policy of refusing to align itself with parties and the belief that labor's interests will be best served by freedom from party affiliation, the report of the executive board of the federation convention outlined a nonpartisan political program.

"The executive council believes that as a result of its nonpartisan political policy, the launching of third party movements has been proved wasted effort and injurious to the desire to elect candidates with favorable records," the report reads.

"Experience therefore taught labor that if it be successful politically it must continue to follow its nonpartisan policy."

The executive board urges organization of women workers, maintenance of wage scales, opposition to communism, a determined fight against company unions and against employers insurance and employe ownership.

Commenting on the death of Samuel Gompers, the late president of the federation, the report said it was the "crucial event" of the year.

"That our movement withstood this shock," the report read, "and has continued to make sustained progress and splendid advancement is in itself the greatest testimony that could be given to the leadership of our former president."

The report devotes much space to the subject of communism.

"Among the pitfalls threatening trade unionists," the report reads, "are communist organizations and activities operating under names adroitly designed to suggest identification with the bona fide trade union movement. By such deceits a number of trade unionists and labor organizations have been misled into supporting efforts to overthrow our unions and our purposes."

The use of injunctions in labor disputes was denounced.

Other matters covered by the report included:

Opposition to the sales tax on the ground that it would relieve the well to do from taxation and place the burden on those least able to bear it. Urged spirited support of child labor legislation.

Reported progress in the formation of a union labor life insurance company.

Advises caution with regard to labor banks, saying that to operate a bank efficiently requires something more than financial assets.

The policies of Samuel Gompers will be carried on by the American Federation of Labor, William Green, who succeeded the deceased leader as president, said in a speech before the federation's convention today.

Green urged organization of labor, criticized the action of the courts in granting injunctions in labor disputes and declared the fight to pass a child labor amendment to the constitution had just begun.

SECURITY PACT CONFERENCE IS MEETING SECRETLY

Locarno, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—The Locarno conference called to conclude a compact between Germany and the allies for the security of Europe convened secretly today.

50,000 BUDDIES TAKE POSSESSION OF OMAHA TODAY

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ABOARD PRIVATE CAR ON WAY TO CONVENTION CITY

By RICHARD WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 5.—Fifty thousand "buddies," enthusiastic, almost riotous in their gaiety, were on hand today for the opening of the seventh national convention of the American Legion.

Another 50,000 delegates and visitors are expected tomorrow for the visit of President and Mrs. Coolidge who are now en route. Although in the main the delegates were having too much fun to be bothered about serious matters, considerable interest attached to what action the Legionnaires may take on several organization and national issues.

There is the Mitchell affair, for instance. Colonel William Mitchell's daring, in risking his own rank, to tell the war department that its attitude on aviation is "boneheaded," has fired the imagination of a vast number of the Legionnaires.

The 40 and 8 fun making section of the Legion, may bring up a resolution demanding endorsement of Mitchell's fight.

Attempts were being made by other Legion officials to smother the Mitchell question in committees. However, it was believed impossible to keep the sentiment for Mitchell off the floor.

Supporters of Mitchell were anticipating the arrival of Alvin Owsley, former national commander of the Legion, who is reported to be in favor of Mitchell's proposal for a unified air service. Owsley is not expected until tomorrow.

Plans were complete today for the arrival of President Coolidge tomorrow morning. It is planned to have Mr. Coolidge speak at 10:30 A. M. in the convention hall. At least 12,000 persons will be allowed to crowd the auditorium to hear him. Loud speakers will carry his voice to city parks and other places where 200,000 more will hear it. The speech will be broadcast by radio.

Following a luncheon in his honor the president will review the annual Legion parade at 2 P. M.

PRES. AND MRS. COOLIDGE AS CONVENTION GUESTS

Aboard the Presidential Train, en route to Omaha, Neb., Oct. 5.—With nearly 24 hours' travel still ahead of him, President Coolidge today relaxed in his palatial car, shed the cares of office and enjoyed the scenery of southern Ohio, Indiana and Illinois through which his train sped.

Out west ahead, lies a big day tomorrow, with a speech to the American Legion, a luncheon and a parade review. But today Mr. Coolidge is exercising that rare faculty which has made him the best conditioned president in many years, forgetting his troubles.

With a book in hand he spends his time in the observation parlor of his car at the rear of the train, now reading, now absorbing the details of the countryside and evidences of its prosperity. Problems of state such as aircraft, shipping board and cabinet changes are packed away in brief cases for reference, perhaps, later in the trip or mayhap not until his return to Washington.

FIVE BILLION HAS BEEN SPENT SO FAR THIS YEAR

BROAD SCALE ACTIVITY TO CONTINUE IN FINAL QUARTER

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Approximately $5,000,000,000 was spent in construction work in this country during the first nine months of the year, more than in any full year in history, the Indiana limestone quarrymen's association announced today in its building review.

Indications point to broad scale activity during the final quarter, Thomas J. Vernia, president of the association said.

September's total was $650,000,000, far in excess of the same month last year.

Plans are going forward for a heavy winter construction program in virtually all districts, Vernia said. "A period of sustained prosperity is almost inevitable.

"Industrial expansion has been accounting for a vast volume which has swollen the totals to a proportion that would appear to the great uninformed as over building."

But there is no overbuilding, Vernia holds.

Construction of hotels, apartment houses and homes represent approximately 50 per cent of all building, he estimated.

"New York leads in the valuation of permits, with Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles Cleveland, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Seattle, Dallas, Minneapolis, Buffalo, Indianapolis, New Orleans and Atlanta following in about the order named," Vernia said.

Comprehensive public building program in various parts of the country contributes to the record breaking activity, he declared.

GERMANY MEETS ALLIES FIRST TIME AS AN EQUAL

FULL AGREEMENT REACHED AS TO THE SECURITY PACT

VARIOUS ARTICLES OF FORTHCOMING RHINELAND TREATY ADOPTED

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Locarno, Switzerland, Oct. 5. — Meeting the Allies in conference as equals for the first time since the world war, Germany's statesmen were successful today at Locarno when full agreement was reached regarding as much of the proposed security pact as was discussed.

Various articles of the forthcoming Rhineland pact were adopted and others upon which reservations or divergencies are expected were referred to a meeting of experts for classification.

This beginning is considered a German success, because the initiative for the security agreement came from the latter government.

The conference which was attended by representatives of Germany, France, Britain, Belgium and Italy, will resume its sessions tomorrow morning.

The use of injunctions in labor disputes was denounced.

Other matters covered by the report included:

Opposition to the sales tax on the ground that it would relieve the well to do from taxation and place the burden on those least able to bear it. Urged spirited support of child labor legislation.

Reported progress in the formation of a union labor life insurance company.

Advises caution with regard to labor banks, saying that to operate a bank efficiently requires something more than financial assets.

The policies of Samuel Gompers will be carried on by the American Federation of Labor, William Green, who succeeded the deceased leader as president, said in a speech before the federation's convention today.

Green urged organization of labor, criticized the action of the courts in granting injunctions in labor disputes and declared the fight to pass a child labor amendment to the constitution had just begun.

U. S. SUPREME COURT CONVENED AT NOON

By HERBERT LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent

Washington, Oct. 5.—The United State supreme court convened its 1925 term at noon today and plunged immediately into the stack of 762 docketed cases, the largest number in many years. All nine justices were present and apparently in the best of health.

SECURITY PACT CONFERENCE IS MEETING SECRETLY

By HENRY WOOD
United Press Staff Correspondent

Locarno, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—The Locarno conference called to conclude a compact between Germany and the allies for the security of Europe convened secretly today.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to protect the lives of the delegates, particularly Dr. Stresemann, the German foreign minister, who had been threatened by extremists from his own country.

50,000 BUDDIES TAKE POSSESSION OF OMAHA TODAY

By RICHARD WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 5.—Fifty thousand "buddies," enthusiastic, almost riotous in their gaiety, were on hand today for the opening of the seventh national convention of the American Legion.

Another 50,000 delegates and visitors are expected tomorrow for the visit of President and Mrs. Coolidge who are now en route. Although in the main the delegates were having too much fun to be bothered about serious matters, considerable interest attached to what action the Legionnaires may take on several organization and national issues.

There is the Mitchell affair, for instance. Colonel William Mitchell's daring, in risking his own rank, to tell the war department that its attitude on aviation is "boneheaded," has fired the imagination of a vast number of the Legionnaires.

The 40 and 8 fun making section of the Legion, may bring up a resolution demanding endorsement of Mitchell's fight.

Attempts were being made by other Legion officials to smother the Mitchell question in committees. However, it was believed impossible to keep the sentiment for Mitchell off the floor.

Supporters of Mitchell were anticipating the arrival of Alvin Owsley, former national commander of the Legion, who is reported to be in favor of Mitchell's proposal for a unified air service. Owsley is not expected until tomorrow.

Plans were complete today for the arrival of President Coolidge tomorrow morning. It is planned to have Mr. Coolidge speak at 10:30 A. M. in the convention hall. At least 12,000 persons will be allowed to crowd the auditorium to hear him. Loud speakers will carry his voice to city parks and other places where 200,000 more will hear it. The speech will be broadcast by radio.

Following a luncheon in his honor the president will review the annual Legion parade at 2 P. M.

PRES. AND MRS. COOLIDGE AS CONVENTION GUESTS

Aboard the Presidential Train, en route to Omaha, Neb., Oct. 5.—With nearly 24 hours' travel still ahead of him, President Coolidge today relaxed in his palatial car, shed the cares of office and enjoyed the scenery of southern Ohio, Indiana and Illinois through which his train sped.

Out west ahead, lies a big day tomorrow, with a speech to the American Legion, a luncheon and a parade review. But today Mr. Coolidge is exercising that rare faculty which has made him the best conditioned president in many years, forgetting his troubles.

With a book in hand he spends his time in the observation parlor of his car at the rear of the train, now reading, now absorbing the details of the countryside and evidences of its prosperity. Problems of state such as aircraft, shipping board and cabinet changes are packed away in brief cases for reference, perhaps, later in the trip or mayhap not until his return to Washington.

FIVE BILLION HAS BEEN SPENT SO FAR THIS YEAR

BROAD SCALE ACTIVITY TO CONTINUE IN FINAL QUARTER

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Approximately $5,000,000,000 was spent in construction work in this country during the first nine months of the year, more than in any full year in history, the Indiana limestone quarrymen's association announced today in its building review.

Indications point to broad scale activity during the final quarter, Thomas J. Vernia, president of the association said.

Plans are going forward for a heavy winter construction program in virtually all districts, Vernia said. "A period of sustained prosperity is almost inevitable.

"Industrial expansion has been accounting for a vast volume which has swollen the totals to a proportion that would appear to the great uninformed as over building."

But there is no overbuilding, Vernia holds.

Construction of hotels, apartment houses and homes represent approximately 50 per cent of all building, he estimated.

"New York leads in the valuation of permits, with Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles Cleveland, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Seattle, Dallas, Minneapolis, Buffalo, Indianapolis, New Orleans and Atlanta following in about the order named," Vernia said.

Comprehensive public building program in various parts of the country contributes to the record breaking activity, he declared.

GERMANY MEETS ALLIES FIRST TIME AS AN EQUAL

FULL AGREEMENT REACHED AS TO THE SECURITY PACT

VARIOUS ARTICLES OF FORTHCOMING RHINELAND TREATY ADOPTED

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Locarno, Switzerland, Oct. 5. — Meeting the Allies in conference as equals for the first time since the world war, Germany's statesmen were successful today at Locarno when full agreement was reached regarding as much of the proposed security pact as was discussed.

Various articles of the forthcoming Rhineland pact were adopted and others upon which reservations or divergencies are expected were referred to a meeting of experts for classification.

This beginning is considered a German success, because the initiative for the security agreement came from the latter government.

The conference which was attended by representatives of Germany, France, Britain, Belgium and Italy, will resume its sessions tomorrow morning.

There is a home not far distant from Brainerd that is happy in the possession of a brand new davenport. It is a nice davenport and it has found a nice home.

But the point of the story is this: The lady of the house decided some months ago that she wanted that davenport. So she started a savings account with us and steadily saved until she had the required amount.

And that davenport means more to that home—much more than if it were purchased on the installment plan and the installments were constantly coming due on it.

If you need something new for your home, open a savings account. Don't buy on the installment plan when you can just as easily pay cash by the savings account method. Come in and talk to us about it.

BAD WEATHER CHECKS SEARCH

CHAS. H. AMES, AIR PILOT, LOST 3 DAYS IN ALLEGHENY MOUNTAINS

Bellefonte, Pa., Oct. 5.—(UP)—With continued bad weather overhanging the Allegheny mountains, where Charles H. Ames, missing air pilot, is believed to be, searchers have been handicapped until hope that he will be found alive virtually has vanished. If the skies clear today six army planes are ready to take off in search of Ames, who failed to reach the air station here on scheduled time just before midnight Thursday.

Rumors continue to sweep the hills but all clues thus far have proved valueless under investigation.

Two hunters near Stone Mountain, 14 miles north of Huntington, reported they heard a crash at the time Ames' plane is believed to have fallen and a general search was begun in that direction.

2 MEN HELD, ANOTHER HUNTED IN GURIN CASE

JACK GOLDIE WAS ARRESTED AT MINOT, N. D., FOR RETURN TO DULUTH

HE AND JACK FERRICK SAID TO HAVE BEEN WITH GURIN NIGHT OF MURDER

Duluth, Oct. 5.—(UP)—Two men were held and another hunted today in connection with the slaying of Nathan Gurin, St. Paul, at Pike Lake, near here last week.

Jack Goldie was arrested at Minot, N. D., for return to Duluth and Jack Ferrick was taken here. The two are said to have been with Gurin the night of the murder.

Police said another man, a St. Paul bootlegger, was also hunted and intimated the missing one was strongly suspected of connection with the crime.

Henry West and his wife, near whose summer home the shooting occurred, were held incommunicado today, but the further arrests were taken to mean they were not suspected of direct connection with the murder.

The two men recently arrested are said to be St. Paul underworld characters.

GOLDIE WILL NOT FIGHT EXTRADITION

Minot, N. D., Oct. 5.—Jack Goldie, held here on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, will not fight extradition to Duluth for questioning in connection with the Gurin murder case, he said today.

Goldie, who is at liberty under $5,000 bond on a narcotic charge preferred in St. Paul, said he could prove an alibi. He admitted knowing Gurin and had newspaper clippings telling about the slaying.

Millions of Wills

Almost at the moment that Waterloo bridge yielded to the strain of river traffic its splendid neighbor, Somerset house, is reaching the point of repletion. It is getting too full for comfort. The storage space in its vast vaults grows perceptibly smaller, and the finding of other accommodation is receiving the attention of the board of works.

In these vaults the volumes and indexes of births, marriages and deaths dating from the year 1837 are piled seven feet high. There are more than 150,000,000 names in these books. Apart from these registers there are some millions of copies of wills in the vaults, and on payment of a shilling any will can be inspected.

Magnificent Moose Head

There is on exhibition in England the outlined head of a very large Canadian moose. This moose is the third biggest that has ever been shot. Its weight when killed was 1,500 pounds—over 107 stone, more than the combined weight of eight 13-stone men—and the spread of its mighty antlers from tip to tip is 70¼ inches, nearly six feet. Before they were mounted these antlers, each of which has 14 points, weighed 64 pounds. An ordinary full-grown moose is the size of a horse. The moose roams through the forests of western Canadian provinces.—Family Herald.

Saint Much Beloved

Saint Barbara, after whom the city of Santa Barbara was named, was one of the most beloved saints of the Middle Ages. She was the daughter of a heathen, Dioscorus, who locked her up to shield her from Christian influence. In spite of this she espoused Christianity and had three windows, in honor of the Holy Trinity, put in her new bath building, while her father was on a trip. Indignant at the sacrilege, as he termed it, he had her dragged before the prefect, who ordered her beheaded. The father carried out the orders.

Beautiful English Cavern

A beautiful cavern system has been discovered near Ingleton, in the Yorkshire hills of England. Two travelers spending a day in the hills happened upon a narrow slit in the rock. Tearing away the limestone they came upon a roaring river passing through crystal caves. In lofty chambers, curtained with stalactites of orange and white crystal, are cascades of clear water. It has been named White Scar cavern.

Collective Bargaining

Collective bargaining means acting or bargaining in groups. If a labor union makes an agreement with an association of employers through their representatives, that is collective bargaining. Collective bargaining is opposed to individual bargaining in which each person acts for himself.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Early Settlers' Hard Time With Toothache

An interesting and instructive history could be written on the care of the teeth. We have plenty of tomes which deal with battles, treaties, kings and presidents. But the history of dentistry is not so well known. There is no denying that the record of Lewis and Clark makes entertaining reading, but we should like to know some day how Daniel Boone, or, to come closer home, how pioneers in the Chemung valley wrestled with wicked molars.

The early settler, or for that matter, our forefathers who may have lived in settled European communities, were indeed unfortunate if their teeth bothered them. The science of dentistry is new. Great-great-grandfather, who suffered from diseased molars, kept alive if his resistance was strong, otherwise, he died from one of a score of diseases now attributed to local infections. Faith in "the good old days" has no foundation in fact. The average age of Americans approximates fifty-five years. In the days of King John, it was less than twenty years. The difference represents the advancement of science.—Elmira Advertiser.

Machine Sets Forth Cold Facts of Life

A machine for showing the relation of one set of facts to another set of facts has been invented by a Princeton university student. Although the machine has fewer parts than the simplest typewriter, its capabilities are tremendous. To illustrate, it will tell a man how long he may expect to live. The factors used in this determination, according to report, are the quantity of tobacco smoked daily, the average duration of sickness a year, and the average blood pressure.

Measuring mortality is an important part of the insurance business, and the new machine might serve as a useful check on the expectancy tables set up by erudite actuaries. But probably the machine won't displace the logarithmic gentlemen who quote the odds on the so-called human race. Handbooks still flourish by the side (approximately) of new-fangled betting machines and it does seem a little more neighborly to get a run for your money from a man than from a mechanism.—Nation's Business Magazine.

Dressing the Part

There's a story that has to do with a stage manager who was rehearsing a mob scene for a new play. After he had directed the men who had been selected for the scene he told them to report at the theater that evening, adding:

"This scene we've rehearsed takes place in Russia, and I want all you guys in fur overcoats."

"But I haven't got a fur overcoat," protested one of the poor actors.

"That's none of my business," replied the stage manager. "If you're not dressed for Russia I won't let you go on."

The extra arrived at the theater that night—but without a fur coat.

"Didn't I tell you I wouldn't let you go on unless you were dressed for Russia?" said the manager.

Arrows Used by Aztecs

The Smithsonian institution says that the South American curare (and other native names) poison for arrows concocted from strychnos nux-vomica did not extend to Mexico. There is little reliable information on what poison, if any, was used by the Aztecs and other Mexicans on arrows. One reference says that arrows were dipped in the acrid juice of leaf of an agave, but the species is not given. The Aztecs were adepts in the properties of plants, and aside from the wound, could have made an arrow very disagreeable.

Freezing Fires to Death

Fire extinguishers that will literally freeze a fire to death, while covering the burning area with a dense gas, which bars all air and oxygen on which the flames might feed, have been devised for fighting switchboard fires, and also for oil tankers and other ships where fires in the cargo hold present a serious problem. The extinguishers, which are merely tanks loaded with the carbon-dioxide gas (such as is used at soda fountains to carbonate the water) eliminate the water damage which forms one of the greatest losses in ordinary fire fighting.

Light Received by Eye

The naval observatory says if the atmosphere is left out of consideration, the quantity of light received by the eye from a luminous object is directly proportional to the amount of light emitted by the object and inversely proportional to the square of the distance. If one light is twice as far away as another, it has to be really four times as bright as the other in order to appear equally bright. The enormous size and brilliancy of the stars, however, enables them to overcome the disadvantage of distance.

More Than Fair Average

The orator finally reached home tired and dusty. His wife greeted him with "And how did your speech go, dear?" The orator forgot his weariness and his dustiness. His chest expanded and one hand went into his coat front in the approved position. "I'll tell you how it went," was his reply. "Six times I paused for cheers and five times I got 'em!"

Explains Love's Madness

The love which is often poetically described as a spring "malady" has now been given a prosaic explanation. We are told that it is the additional moisture of the season that causes people to write poems, fall in love and shun work.

Be Sure of Title

Title to property should be guaranteed and protected. A buyer who takes the word of the seller is only himself to blame if he runs into trouble. At the time of signing the preliminary agreement have it incorporated into the contract that a guaranteed title should be delivered and title insurance backed by a responsible company furnished.

FASCISTI AND SOCIALISTS IN BLOODY FIGHTING

Florence, Italy, Oct. 5.—(UP)—Three persons were killed, one is dying and scores were wounded in fighting here between fascisti and socialists, which followed the murder Saturday of a fascisti named Luporini by a socialist railroad worker, Beneiolini. The latter's body, riddled with bullets by enraged fascisti, was found later. Calm was restored today and the fascisti have received strict orders to discontinue reprisals.

RESTORING BEAUTY OF HUMAN FORM

The most frequent cause of mouth breathing is enlarged tonsils and adenoids. Mouth breathing alters the shape of the jaws and nose and if continued for some time results in the stupid, open-mouth expression known as the "adenoid face." If your child is a mouth breather, have him examined by a physician and have the cause removed.

Crossed-eyes are entirely curable if correctly treated during the early years of life. Parents should take their child to a competent oculist as soon as they notice that either eye is beginning to turn. When the condition has passed beyond the stage where glasses will correct it, an operation is frequently recommended. Eye strain of any kind not only affects the appearance but endangers the sight, and is bad for the general health. In many cases the wearing of glasses in childhood will correct eye trouble, and lenses will not be necessary later.

Irregular and protruding teeth may result from the alteration of the shape of the jaw caused by mouth breathing, or may be caused by lack of care of the teeth.

Knock knees and bowlegs are due to a general weakness of the bones, particularly rickets, a preventable disease caused by improper diet. Children suffering with rickets should be under treatment several months before they are allowed to stand. Many deformities, commonly believed incurable, respond favorably to orthopedic measures.

The first step, then, in giving your child his or her chance to be good looking is to see that all remedial defects are corrected. A physical examination once a year will insure early discovery of defects.

Radiant health is one of the first requirements of beauty, so begin early to establish those regular habits that develop health; long and regular hours of rest, an abundance of fresh air day and night, nourishing food, including milk, fruits and green vegetables, cleanliness, good posture and careful attention to the skin and hair, and the happy play hour out-of-doors.

BRAINERD ELKS CONVENTION PICTURES

THE Brainerd Elks convention pictures continue to be shown throughout the state. Brainerd, Chisholm, St. Cloud and other Elks towns were on the calendar and just lately Little Falls made arrangements to see the pictures.

H. B. Smoots, manager of the Lowell theatre in Little Falls, is a Past Exalted Ruler of Little Falls lodge. The Elks lodge is arranging for a show to be given at his theatre on October 15 and 16 for the benefit of the home building fund. The show will consist of the regular film which Manager Smoots has engaged and in addition the film taken at the Elks state convention at Brainerd this summer will be shown. Following the show on Thursday evening, October 15, a dance will be given at the Elks home.

After the film has covered Minnesota, including all the Finkelstein & Ruben theatres, Gus Ludwig, millionaire of New York city who attended the Brainerd convention, will sponsor its appearance at a New York theatre. Then, after the film has spent a year traveling around and giving Brainerd wonderful advertising, it is hoped to prevail upon Finkelstein & Ruben to present the picture to the Elks State Association, to be preserved in its files, giving a faithful pictorial representation of a gala time spent in Brainerd in 1925.

Little Falls will be well pleased with the picture, for it shows the lodge marching gallantly in the parade, headed by their Jersey cow bearing a placard. Little Falls, by the way, had the second largest body of marchers in the parade and received a parade prize of $25.

WE had no idea the men were being spoiled, figuring they were so busy meeting monthly bills that they had little time for white way dissipation. And now comes Miss Marie Andresen, who is a domestic relations expert of the district attorney's office in Chicago, and says authoritatively, for she has studied thousands of marital cases, "the women are spoiling the men. They have cradled them in love so long that they have grown flabby and irresponsible." Miss Andresen speaks from data gathered in marital cases. Wait till she gets married and she may have other views.

THE school board of Huron, S. D., has settled a mighty issue. They have declared that if there is any flapping to be done by the flapper school girls, it is to be done at home. Hereafter the lip stick, the powder puff, the eye lash tweezer, etc., are to be manipulated at home and not in school. It got so in Huron, we think, that the girl couldn't recite without giving her nose a little dab of powder and her lip a few extra brushes, as though ephemeral beauty had anything to do with the absorption of higher knowledge.

THE Montana supreme court has at last passed on a question which has disturbed many economists. It has declared that the purchase of an automobile which one does not need is not sufficient grounds for holding the buyer insane. We affirm what the court said, which concludes by asserting that "if the purchase of a car which one did not need would brand one as a person without understanding, most of us have placed ourselves in the same category."

CONGRESSMAN HAROLD KNUTSON, who spoke at Brainerd on the World Court, will address the Upsala community club on the same subject. The congressman, in his World Court addresses, has appeared at St. Cloud, Brainerd, Aitkin, Paynesville, Melrose, and will speak at Sauk Rapids on Oct. 14.

BIG RAILROAD BATTLE IN WEST

3 GREAT SYSTEMS ENGAGED IN STRUGGLE AT PORTLAND, ORE.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 5.—One of the biggest railroad battles of the west was being fought here today between three of the great railroad systems of the country.

Lawyers with brief cases were the fighters and legal strategy and argumentation their weapons. Yet the case had all the seriousness of railroad fights in the early days when roads would lay tracks furiously during the night to shut off competitions and block their lines.

The stake of the battle which opened here at an interstate commerce commission hearing is the rich Klamath country in southern Oregon. The Oregon Trunk railroad, a subsidiary of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads is seeking the right to extend its lines south from Bend, Ore., to Klamath Falls. The Southern Pacific system is opposing this.

When the Oregon Trunk officials attempt to show why they should be granted a certificate of public convenience and necessity to build the road, the Southern Pacific will counter with the position that it has adequately taken care of the country.

But the Southern Pacific is now completing the new Natron cut-off road into Klamath Falls from Eugene, Ore., and four separate applications for authority to extend its roads and roads of its allies are now pending before the commission. These applications also will be considered at the hearing here. They concern the Oregon, California and Eastern railroad, the Nevada-California-Oregon railway, and sections of the Southern Pacific to these smaller lines.

The Southern Pacific also expects to show that if given exclusive privileges in the Klamath territory it would be enabled eventually to establish a new trunk line from Portland to Ogden, via Klamath Falls, northeastern California and Nevada.

While it is not on the table at the hearing here, railroad men say that the northern lines will fight desperately for the privilege to enter Klamath Falls. This would be one step in extending their lines south to San Francisco Bay.

NAVAL COURT OF INQUIRY TO END HEARINGS

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 5.—(UP)—The Naval court of inquiry investigating the Shenandoah disaster will conclude its hearings here today and adjourn to Washington. Aside from the technical experts who will be called to appear before the court when it reopens in Washington, the only witness of outstanding importance is to be Mrs. Margaret Ross Lansdowne, widow of the Shenandoah's commander, who will be the first woman ever invited to appear before a court of inquiry in the history of the American navy.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—(UP) — Snow and rain will visit the northern sections of this forecast area within the next 36 hours, the federal weather bureau here predicted today. Rains will be general over the southeastern sections Tuesday and Tuesday night, the prediction said.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 5.—(UP)—George Babcock, address unknown, narrowly escaped death here today when the airplane he was piloting to Portage, where he was to perform at the Columbia county fair, crashed to the ground just outside the city.

The double seated Curtiss plane buried its nose in the ground, throwing Babcock clear of the wreckage. Small handbills found in the man's pockets by attending physicians indicated he had flown at Palentine, Ind., Sunday. Babcock is expected to recover.

Hard to Get Couple to Agree on Money

It is largely the "niceness" of middle-class married folk, making them unwilling to discuss "the sordid matter of money," that causes trouble for wage-earning wives, says one of them, writing anonymously in the Woman's Home Companion.

Says the wage-earning wife: "Unexpectedly enough it was that double income which even our old-fashioned relatives had approved that became our chief difficulty. If the economic dependence of women had tyrants on the one hand and cowards on the other, the economic independence of women has its own dangers. Two people, each accustomed to earning his own living, to spending his own income, have a good deal of adjusting to do before they learn how to merge two incomes into one, and until that lesson is learned they flounder in a financial morass."

The solution for the problems of their household, the wage-earning wife continues, came when the husband could bring himself to say, "as he would have said to a brother with whom he was keeping house, or any man friend: 'See here, you're holding out on me. You can't go on buying rugs until you've paid your share for the kitchen ceiling. Shell out.'"

Ancient Peoples Not Really So Backward

Inhabitants of the earth 5,000 years ago were not so backward as one might think, discoveries by members of a joint expedition of the University of Pennsylvania and the British museum to Ur of the Chaldees have shown.

Flint blades, about the size of safety-razor blades, that were indestructible and never needed honing or sharpening, were found. The blades were still as sharp as when used, without holders, by the prehistoric dandies.

A sewerage system in the temple of the Moon God, used to dispose of blood from animals used for sacrifices, equaled many of those today, according to the scientists.

Relics will be divided equally between the two museums. They show that many things thought to be modern inventions were used in Ur of the Chaldees more than fifty centuries ago, and, it is said, prove that life then did not differ greatly from ours.

RESTORING BEAUTY OF HUMAN FORM

The most frequent cause of mouth breathing is enlarged tonsils and adenoids. Mouth breathing alters the shape of the jaws and nose and if continued for some time results in the stupid, open-mouth expression known as the "adenoid face." If your child is a mouth breather, have him examined by a physician and have the cause removed.

Crossed-eyes are entirely curable if correctly treated during the early years of life. Parents should take their child to a competent oculist as soon as they notice that either eye is beginning to turn. When the condition has passed beyond the stage where glasses will correct it, an operation is frequently recommended. Eye strain of any kind not only affects the appearance but endangers the sight, and is bad for the general health. In many cases the wearing of glasses in childhood will correct eye trouble, and lenses will not be necessary later.

Irregular and protruding teeth may result from the alteration of the shape of the jaw caused by mouth breathing, or may be caused by lack of care of the teeth.

Knock knees and bowlegs are due to a general weakness of the bones, particularly rickets, a preventable disease caused by improper diet. Children suffering with rickets should be under treatment several months before they are allowed to stand. Many deformities, commonly believed incurable, respond favorably to orthopedic measures.

The first step, then, in giving your child his or her chance to be good looking is to see that all remedial defects are corrected. A physical examination once a year will insure early discovery of defects.

Radiant health is one of the first requirements of beauty, so begin early to establish those regular habits that develop health; long and regular hours of rest, an abundance of fresh air day and night, nourishing food, including milk, fruits and green vegetables, cleanliness, good posture and careful attention to the skin and hair, and the happy play hour out-of-doors.

Two days and nights enabled the Countess Courteau to strip the Northern Hotel, to assemble the movable appurtenances thereto, and to pack them into boxes, bales, and bundles, none of which weighed more than one hundred pounds. This lapse of time likewise enabled the Indians whom Pierce had hired to finish their contracts and return to the coast. In spite of the appalling amount of freight, Pierce believed he had enough men to move it in two trips, and when the hour came to start the Countess complimented him upon his thorough preparations. As swiftly as might be he formed his packers in line, weighed their burdens, and sent them on their journey. These preparations occasioned much confusion and a considerable crowd assembled. Among the onlookers was a bright-eyed, weazened little man who attached himself to the chief and engaged him in conversation.

When the last burden-bearer had departed the Countess directed Lucky Broad and Kid Bridges to stay in the hotel and stand guard over the remainder of the goods.

"Take six-hour shifts," she told them. "I'll hold you responsible for what's here."

"It's as safe as wheat," Broad assured her.

"I'll camp at the Scales with the stuff that has gone forward, and Pierce will bring the Indians back."

"D'you think you can ride herd on it?" Bridges inquired. "I understand there's a lawless element at large."

The Countess smiled. "I'm sort of a lawless element myself when I start," she said. Her eyes twinkled as she measured Mr. Bridges' burly proportions. "Your going to miss your alfalfa bed before I get you to Linderman."

The Kid nodded seriously. "I know," said he. "Serves me right for quittin' a profession for a trade, but I got to look over this Dawson place. They say it's soft pickin'. Lucky is taking his stock in trade along, all three of 'em, so maybe we'll tear off a penny or two on the way."

Pierce's pack consisted of a tent for the Countess, some bedding, and food; with this on his back he and his employer set out to overtake their train. This they accomplished a short distance below the first crossing of the river. Already the white packers, of whom there were perhaps a score, had drawn together; the Indians were following them in a long file. Having seen his companion safely across the stream, Pierce asked her, somewhat doubtfully:

"Do you think Broad and his partner are altogether trustworthy?"

"Nobody is that," she told him. "But they're at least intelligent. In this kind of a country I prefer an intelligent crook to an honest fool. Most people are honest or dishonest when and as they think it is to their advantage to be so. Those men want to get to Dawson, and they know the police would never let them cross the line. I'm their only chance. They'll stand assay."

It was mid-forenoon when the Countess halted Pierce, who was a short distance ahead of her, saying: "Wait! Didn't you hear somebody calling us?"

They listened. They were about to move onward when there came a faint hallo, and far down the trail behind them they saw a figure approaching. After a moment of scrutiny Pierce declared.

"Why, it's Broad!"

"Whew!" he panted. "Thought I'd never run you down. Well, set yourselves."

"What's wrong?" demanded the woman.

"Plenty. You've been double-crossed, whip-sawed. Your noble red men have quit you; they dumped your stuff at the river and made a deal at double rates to move Sam Kirby's freight. They're back in Dyea now, the whole works."

The Countess Courteau exploded with a man's oath. Her face was purple; her eyes were blazing.

"Danny Royal, Kirby's man, done it. Sam's gone on to Linderman to build a boat. I saw Danny curled up on the chief's ear while you were loading. After you'd gone him and the old pirate followed. Me 'n' Bridges never thought anything about it until by and by back came the whole party, empty. Danny trooped 'em down to the beach and begun packin' 'em. I know him, so I asked him what the devil. 'Hands off!' says he. 'Sam Kirby's got a rush order in ahead of yours, and these refreshments is going through by express. I've raised your ante. Money no object, understand? I'll boost the price again if I have to, and keep on boosting it.' Then he warned me not to start anything or he'd tack two letters onto the front of my name. He'd do it, too. I took it on the run, and here I am."

"Sam Kirby, eh?" The Countess' flaming rage had given place to a cool, calculating anger.

Pierce protested violently. "I hired those Indians. We agreed on a price and everything was settled."

"Well, Danny unsettled it. 'They're workin' for him and he intends to keep 'em."

"What about our white packers?" the woman inquired of Broad.

"They must have crossed before Danny caught up, or he'd have had them, too. 'Money no object,' he said. I'm danged if I'd turn a trick like that."

"Where's our stuff?"

"At the Crossing."

The Countess turned back down the trail and Pierce followed her. "I'll settle this Royal," he declared furiously.

"Danny's a bad boy," Lucky Broad warned, falling into step. "If old Sam told him to hold a buzz-saw in his lap he'd do it. Maybe there wouldn't be much left of Danny, but he'd of hugged it some while he lasted."

Little more was said during the swift return to the river. It was not a pleasant journey, for the trail was miserable, the mud was deep, and there was a steady upflow of traffic which it was necessary to stem. There were occasional interruptions to this stream, for here and there horses were down and a blockade had resulted. Behind it men lay propped against logs or tree-trunks, resting their tired frames and listening apathetically to the profanity of the horse-owners. Rarely did any one offer to lend a helping hand, for each man's task was equal to his strength. In one place a line of steers stood belly deep in the mire, waiting the command to plow forward.

Broken carts, abandoned vehicles of various patterns, lined the way; there were many swollen carcasses underfoot, and not infrequently pedestrians crossed mud-holes by stepping from one to another, holding their breaths and battling through swarms of flies. Much costly impedimenta strewed the roadside — each article a milestone of despair, a monument to failure. There were stoves, camp furniture, lumber, hardware, boat fittings. The wreckage and the wastage of the stampede were enormous, and every ounce, every dollar's worth of it, spoke mutely of blasted hopes. Now and then one saw piles of provisions, some of which had been entirely abandoned. The rains had ruined most of them.

When the Countess came to her freight she paused. "You said Royal was loading his men when you left?" She faced Broad inquiringly.

"Right!"

"Then he'll soon be along. We'll wait here." Of Phillips she asked, "Do you carry a gun?"

Pierce shook his head. "What are you going to do?" He could see that she was boiling inwardly, and although his own anger had increased at every moment during the return journey, her question caused him genuine apprehension.

Avoiding a direct answer, the woman said: "If Royal is with the Indians, you keep your eye on him. I want to talk to them."

"Don't inaugurate any violent measures," Mr. Broad cautioned, nervously. "Danny's a sudden sort of murderer. Of course, if worse comes to worse, I'll stick, but—my rating in the community ain't A 1. There's a lot of narrow-minded church members would like to baptize me at high tide. As if that would get their money back!"

A suggestion of a smile crept to the Countess' lips and she said, "I knew you'd stick when I hired you." Then she seated herself upon a box.

Danny Royal did accompany his packers. He did so as a precaution against precisely such a coup as he himself had engineered, and in order to be doubly secure he brought the head Indian with him. The old tribesman had rebelled mildly, but Royal had been firm, and in consequence they were the first two to appear when the procession came out of the woods.

The chief halted at sight of Phillips, the man who had hired him and his people, but at a word from Royal he resumed his march. He averted his eyes, however, and he held his head low, showing that this encounter was not at all to his liking. Royal, on the contrary, carried off the meeting easily. He grinned at Lucky Broad and was about to pass on when the Countess Courteau rose to her feet and stepped into the trail.

"Just a minute!" she said. Of Royal's companion she sternly demanded, "What do you mean by this trick?"

The old redskin shot her a swift glance; then his face became expressionless and he gazed stolidly at the river.

"What do you mean?" the woman repeated, in a voice quivering with fury.

"Him people—" the chief began, but Royal spoke for him. Removing his hat, he made a stiff little bow, then said, courteously enough:

"I'm sorry to hold you up, ma'am, but—"

"You're not holding me up; I'm holding you up," the woman broke in. "What do you take me for, anyhow?" She stared at the white man so coldly, there was such authority and such fixity of purpose in her tone and her expression, that his manner changed.

"I'm on orders," said he. "There's no use to argue. I'd talk plainer to you if you was a man."

But she had turned her eyes to the chief again. "You lying scoundrel!" she cried, accusingly. "I made a straight deal with you and your people and I agreed to your price. I'm not going to let you throw me down!"

Two days and nights enabled the Countess Courteau to strip the Northern Hotel, to assemble the movable appurtenances thereto, and to pack them into boxes, bales, and bundles, none of which weighed more than one hundred pounds. This lapse of time likewise enabled the Indians whom Pierce had hired to finish their contracts and return to the coast. In spite of the appalling amount of freight, Pierce believed he had enough men to move it in two trips, and when the hour came to start the Countess complimented him upon his thorough preparations. As swiftly as might be he formed his packers in line, weighed their burdens, and sent them on their journey. These preparations occasioned much confusion and a considerable crowd assembled. Among the onlookers was a bright-eyed, weazened little man who attached himself to the chief and engaged him in conversation.

When the last burden-bearer had departed the Countess directed Lucky Broad and Kid Bridges to stay in the hotel and stand guard over the remainder of the goods.

"Take six-hour shifts," she told them. "I'll hold you responsible for what's here."

"It's as safe as wheat," Broad assured her.

"I'll camp at the Scales with the stuff that has gone forward, and Pierce will bring the Indians back."

"D'you think you can ride herd on it?" Bridges inquired. "I understand there's a lawless element at large."

The Countess smiled. "I'm sort of a lawless element myself when I start," she said. Her eyes twinkled as she measured Mr. Bridges' burly proportions. "Your going to miss your alfalfa bed before I get you to Linderman."

The Kid nodded seriously. "I know," said he. "Serves me right for quittin' a profession for a trade, but I got to look over this Dawson place. They say it's soft pickin'. Lucky is taking his stock in trade along, all three of 'em, so maybe we'll tear off a penny or two on the way."

START BUILDING THE GRANDSTAND TODAY

ATHLETIC PARK IMPROVED FOR BROWNS GAME

TICKET SALE IN BRAINERD AND COUNTRY PROGRESSING FAVORABLY

SCORE BOOK WILL SOON BE COMPILED, POSTERS BEING DISTRIBUTED

ANOTHER MEETING CALLED FOR TUESDAY

All committeemen and others interested are asked to meet on Tuesday evening, Oct. 6, at 7:30 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce for further action and reports.

Ticket sellers Friday night reported such satisfactory progress in disposing of the pasteboards for the St. Louis Browns-Brainerd game at Athletic park on Wednesday afternoon, October 14, that the executive committee ordered construction of the grandstand and early Monday morning the fans saw the big grandstand assuming shape.

Rain and snow insurance, probably $500 worth, will probably be taken so that the game will be underwritten in case of excessive moisture.

The big posters are being distributed throughout the surrounding country and every crossroad corner, every watertank town, every farm settlement will carry its appeal.

Minnesota & International railway territory has been papered by Richard Bush, brother of the world famous Joe Bullet. This game is a community affair, and any motorist, taking a trip, should call at the Dispatch office for bills and assist in posting them.

Ed. Whiting has distributed many, with Swedie Erickson a close second. David Frayer took some last night, as did Messrs Edw. Anderson, Greer and Nelson of the United Commercial Travelers.

W. R. Hiller, manager of the Park and Lyceum theatres, has shown his public spirit and cooperation by donating slides and will display gratuitously in both theatres a notice of the coming game.

The Parade

The parade will be an imposing one, with three bands in line, the two baseball teams, citizens, kids, etc. It is hoped to gather in one bloc the first team in which Les Bush played. These members, so far as can be learned, include Jim Alderman, Swedie Erickson, Herb Paine, young Trent, Sig Sheflo and others. It was in that game at the Pequot fairgrounds where John Cochran bet the munificent sum of $4 on the team and agreed to give the players half if they won, that the $2 side money was garnered in and Pequot ingloriously defeated. Bush at that time started his vogue of wearing a red shirt and with but few alterations and less washing, has worn the red shirt that pushed him on to victory in world's series with Connie Mack, the Boston Red Sox, the Yankees and the big games with the St. Louis Browns, culminating in the grand contest at Athletic Park October 14th.

Minneapolis Men Coming

A group of Minneapolis lodge Elks are coming for the game and Tony Pleva, one of the veteran arbiters of the American Association has put in a bid to umpire. Of local umpires it is believed Andy Smraker will officiate. Andy preserves an even keel and never gets flustered.

Some lightning double plays, fast running of bases, thrilling fielding, hair raising line drives are expected. The ball may be pasted beyond the confines of the park.

Many duck hunters will stop over for the game. Glenwood is the latest town to report a gathering of the fans and resolutions adopted to attend the Brainerd game.

South Long Lake where the Thompsons come from, will suspend farming operations Wednesday and like Cincinnatus of old, leave the old plow sticking in the furrow to answer the call of the diamond.

Autographing Baseballs

Many fans will bring a bright, new baseball to Brainerd in order to have Joe Bullet Bush autograph the same. Several carloads of aspiring pitchers are headed for Brainerd in order to have Bush size them up. There may be a diamond in the rough who with proper development may reach the big show.

Social Affairs

The American Legion will give a dance at Gardner hall Wednesday evening, Oct. 14, and the St. Louis Browns will be honor guests.

The Browns will also be honor guests at the banquet given by the Elks lodge on that Wednesday evening.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Harry Heilmann, Detroit outfielder, got six hits in nine times up and took the American league batting championship away from Tris Speaker. The Tigers landed fourth place by taking a double header from the Browns at 9 to 4 and 11 to 6.

In an old fashioned slugging match the White Sox flopped the Indians 10 to 8. Mostill stole a base and won the American league championship with 42 thefts.

The Pirates divided a double header with the Reds, 4 to 2 and 10 to 4. Schultz's error spoiled a shut out for Donohue in the second game.

The Cardinals knocked the Cubs down into the cellar by beating them 7 to 5.

FIRST GAME OF WORLD'S SERIES AT PITTSBURGH

NEW YORK DELEGATION LEAVES FOR THE OPENING GAME WEDNESDAY

OPINION IS DIVIDED AS TO WHO WILL BE VICTORS OF THE SERIES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Oct. 5.—With all the surprises and disappointments of the 1925 season recorded in a closed book, baseball today was ready for the first game of the world's series between the champion Washington Senators and the Pittsburgh Pirates, starting Wednesday in Pittsburgh.

New York's delegation of officials, scribes and those fans who have money enough to qualify as regulars, left to make sure of promised hotel rooms and get in on all the preliminary conversation without which a series never can be started.

John A. Heydler, president of the National league, headed the New York delegation, which included John J. McGraw, manager of the former champion Giants, and Hughey Jennings, his first assistant.

Others in the party were Colonel Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, and his reformed prodigal, Babe Ruth.

Opinions identified the speakers. Those who picked the Senators were American leaguers and those who favored the Pirates were from the National league.

Pittsburgh was still a 6 to 5 favorite in the little betting that was done in the financial district.

There was no Washingon money in sight and bets aggregating $25,000 that were offered on Pittsburgh at 6 to 5 found no takers.

If there is to be any betting, the market may get some life in Pittsburgh tomorrow where local pride may encourage the home towns folks to show their loyalty by making the price longer.

Opinion as to the length of the series is just as evenly divided as the guesses on the winner. Some figure that the championship may be decided in five games, while others believe that it will go to the limit of seven games.

With two such evenly matched teams it looks certain that it will take seven games to decide unless the Pirates should run wild and overwhelm the Senators in the first two games. In that case almost anything could happen. The Pirates, with more good pitchers to call on, are in a better position to overcome a bad start, granting that there is a heart in the club.

PIRATE PITCHING STAFF LOOKS STRONGER; SENATORS CLAIMED WEAK AGAINST CURVES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Oct. 5.—Doping out of the relative merits of the Washington and Pittsburgh pitching staffs presents one of the most difficult problems to be faced in picking the winner of the world's series.

The two champion clubs are well fortified on the mound. The Senators have good pitchers and so have the Pirates but the National League champions have more quantity than the 1924 champions.

The Senators will have to rely on the veteran hero, Walter Johnson, Stanley Coveleskie, Dutch Reuther, Tom Zachary, Alec Ferguson, Fred Marberry and Ballou and Russell.

The Pirates will depend upon Vic Aldridge, Lee Meadows, Johnny Morrison, Emil Yde, Tom Sheehan, Babe Adams, Oldham and Culloton.

Coveleskie, Johnson and Reuther pitched the Senators into their second American League championship but they are all veterans and the strain has told on them severely. They went almost to pieces during the last quarter of the pennant race and if it had not been for the tragic losing streak of the young Philadelphia Athletics, the Senators might not have won the pennant.

The Senators were so delayed in reaching the mathematical certainty that they couldn't afford to take a chance and Buck Harris had no opportunity to rest up his veterans for the series.

The Washington pitching staff may not be as effective against the Pirates as they were against the American League clubs. The Pirates murder fast ball pitching and they lost only five games all season to left-handed pitching. That makes it bad for Walter Johnson, Reuther and Tom Zachary.

Coveleskie is a great pitcher, the best perhaps in the American League but he is a seven inning pitcher. He uses the spitter on practically every delivery and it is a tremendous strain on his arm and his physical resources.

There is this to be considered, of course—the Washington pitchers will have the most perfect infield defense in baseball behind them and the outfield too has a lot of class. The Senators also have a wonderful relief pitcher in Fred Marberry and Bucky Harris may be able to get around his troubles by shifting pitchers as he did so successfully in the series last year.

It is an established fact that too much cannot be expected of a pitcher on his season's record. Big Tom Zachary went bad late in the season last year and the dopesters thought that he wouldn't get a chance to work in the series but he pitched some of the best ball seen in the series when Harris called upon him.

When Johnson and Reauther are working, it must be remembered, the Senators have a nine man offense. Johnson led the American League in batting and Reuther always has been a great hitter.

"Lee Meadows, Johnny Morrison and Vic Aldridge are three of the best curve ball pitchers in baseball. The Senators will see something from them that they didn't see in their league." Art Nehf, the veteran Giant pitcher, said recently when discussing the series.

Around the American League the Senators are held to have a great weakness against curve ball pitching but no teams have a particular preference to bat against a good curve ball.

In Meadows, Kremer, Aldridge, Yde and Adams the Pirates have a wealth of first class pitching. Adams is an old man, of course, but while his arm has shown the strain of his year of service, his cunning head is still functioning and he will be valuable if Bill McKechnie can find some spots for him where he will not have to go a full game.

Another disadvantage the Washington pitchers will have can be realized by taking a look at the Pittsburgh batting order. There are eight men from the top down who are .300 hitters or better. The Washington pitchers will have to bear down on every batter as there isn't a weak spot in the entire Pittsburgh offense.

They are all hard, swinging hitters and with their terrific speed they will worry and annoy any pitcher when they get on the bases. The Pirates stole more than 150 bases this season and it is impossible to calculate how many hits they have stretched by their daring work on the bases.

It is well and good to figure how many "sure hits" will be stopped by the brilliant Washington infield but no defense can stop stinging drives that drop between the inner and outer defense.

The Pirates, considering everything, look to have the big advantage in the pitching and pitching surely is an important factor in a short series.

METHODIST CONFERENCE AT FERGUS FALLS

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 5.—(UP)—The Northern Minnesota Methodist conference adjourned last night after announcement of appointments for the coming year.

Transfer of William C. Hodson from the pastorate of the First church, Fargo, N. D., to superintendency of the Minneapolis district, was the most important change. Ernest E. Parish will take his place in Fargo.

Principal action of the conference was endorsement of the proposal to unify the northern and southern divisions of the church. A new pension system for ministers was also adopted.

SEEK TO HALT WATER DIVERSION OF LAKE MICHIGAN

Washington, Oct. 5.—(UP)—An amended complaint was filed in United States Supreme court today by Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio and Pennsylvania aginst the state of Illinois and the sanitary district of Chicago, to halt further diversion of water from lake Michigan.

They charged withdrawal of water at Chicago already has lowered the lake level six inches and that navigation on the Great Lakes as a whole is being seriously interfered with great resulting loss to commerce and navigation.

START BUILDING THE GRANDSTAND TODAY

ATHLETIC PARK IMPROVED FOR BROWNS GAME

TICKET SALE IN BRAINERD AND COUNTRY PROGRESSING FAVORABLY

SCORE BOOK WILL SOON BE COMPILED, POSTERS BEING DISTRIBUTED

ANOTHER MEETING CALLED FOR TUESDAY

All committeemen and others interested are asked to meet on Tuesday evening, Oct. 6, at 7:30 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce for further action and reports.

Ticket sellers Friday night reported such satisfactory progress in disposing of the pasteboards for the St. Louis Browns-Brainerd game at Athletic park on Wednesday afternoon, October 14, that the executive committee ordered construction of the grandstand and early Monday morning the fans saw the big grandstand assuming shape.

Rain and snow insurance, probably $500 worth, will probably be taken so that the game will be underwritten in case of excessive moisture.

The big posters are being distributed throughout the surrounding country and every crossroad corner, every watertank town, every farm settlement will carry its appeal.

Minnesota & International railway territory has been papered by Richard Bush, brother of the world famous Joe Bullet. This game is a community affair, and any motorist, taking a trip, should call at the Dispatch office for bills and assist in posting them.

Ed. Whiting has distributed many, with Swedie Erickson a close second. David Frayer took some last night, as did Messrs Edw. Anderson, Greer and Nelson of the United Commercial Travelers.

W. R. Hiller, manager of the Park and Lyceum theatres, has shown his public spirit and cooperation by donating slides and will display gratuitously in both theatres a notice of the coming game.

The Parade

The parade will be an imposing one, with three bands in line, the two baseball teams, citizens, kids, etc. It is hoped to gather in one bloc the first team in which Les Bush played. These members, so far as can be learned, include Jim Alderman, Swedie Erickson, Herb Paine, young Trent, Sig Sheflo and others. It was in that game at the Pequot fairgrounds where John Cochran bet the munificent sum of $4 on the team and agreed to give the players half if they won, that the $2 side money was garnered in and Pequot ingloriously defeated. Bush at that time started his vogue of wearing a red shirt and with but few alterations and less washing, has worn the red shirt that pushed him on to victory in world's series with Connie Mack, the Boston Red Sox, the Yankees and the big games with the St. Louis Browns, culminating in the grand contest at Athletic Park October 14th.

Minneapolis Men Coming

A group of Minneapolis lodge Elks are coming for the game and Tony Pleva, one of the veteran arbiters of the American Association has put in a bid to umpire. Of local umpires it is believed Andy Smraker will officiate. Andy preserves an even keel and never gets flustered.

Some lightning double plays, fast running of bases, thrilling fielding, hair raising line drives are expected. The ball may be pasted beyond the confines of the park.

Many duck hunters will stop over for the game. Glenwood is the latest town to report a gathering of the fans and resolutions adopted to attend the Brainerd game.

South Long Lake where the Thompsons come from, will suspend farming operations Wednesday and like Cincinnatus of old, leave the old plow sticking in the furrow to answer the call of the diamond.

Autographing Baseballs

Many fans will bring a bright, new baseball to Brainerd in order to have Joe Bullet Bush autograph the same. Several carloads of aspiring pitchers are headed for Brainerd in order to have Bush size them up. There may be a diamond in the rough who with proper development may reach the big show.

Social Affairs

The American Legion will give a dance at Gardner hall Wednesday evening, Oct. 14, and the St. Louis Browns will be honor guests.

The Browns will also be honor guests at the banquet given by the Elks lodge on that Wednesday evening.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Harry Heilmann, Detroit outfielder, got six hits in nine times up and took the American league batting championship away from Tris Speaker. The Tigers landed fourth place by taking a double header from the Browns at 9 to 4 and 11 to 6.

In an old fashioned slugging match the White Sox flopped the Indians 10 to 8. Mostill stole a base and won the American league championship with 42 thefts.

The Pirates divided a double header with the Reds, 4 to 2 and 10 to 4. Schultz's error spoiled a shut out for Donohue in the second game.

The Cardinals knocked the Cubs down into the cellar by beating them 7 to 5.

FIRST GAME OF WORLD'S SERIES AT PITTSBURGH

NEW YORK DELEGATION LEAVES FOR THE OPENING GAME WEDNESDAY

OPINION IS DIVIDED AS TO WHO WILL BE VICTORS OF THE SERIES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Oct. 5.—With all the surprises and disappointments of the 1925 season recorded in a closed book, baseball today was ready for the first game of the world's series between the champion Washington Senators and the Pittsburgh Pirates, starting Wednesday in Pittsburgh.

New York's delegation of officials, scribes and those fans who have money enough to qualify as regulars, left to make sure of promised hotel rooms and get in on all the preliminary conversation without which a series never can be started.

John A. Heydler, president of the National league, headed the New York delegation, which included John J. McGraw, manager of the former champion Giants, and Hughey Jennings, his first assistant.

Others in the party were Colonel Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, and his reformed prodigal, Babe Ruth.

Opinions identified the speakers. Those who picked the Senators were American leaguers and those who favored the Pirates were from the National league.

Pittsburgh was still a 6 to 5 favorite in the little betting that was done in the financial district.

There was no Washingon money in sight and bets aggregating $25,000 that were offered on Pittsburgh at 6 to 5 found no takers.

If there is to be any betting, the market may get some life in Pittsburgh tomorrow where local pride may encourage the home towns folks to show their loyalty by making the price longer.

Opinion as to the length of the series is just as evenly divided as the guesses on the winner. Some figure that the championship may be decided in five games, while others believe that it will go to the limit of seven games.

Wth two such evenly matched teams it looks certain that it will take seven games to decide unless the Pirates should run wild and overwhelm the Senators in the first two games. In that case almost anything could happen. The Pirates, with more good pitchers to call on, are in a better position to overcome a bad start, granting that there is a heart in the club.

CITY IS DEFENDANT IN $7,500 LAWSUIT

Walter F. Schwendeman Sues City And Co-Defendant Northwestern Medical & Surgical Association

CHARGES FAILURE OF LIGHT

That Physician Was Thus Compelled to Stop Operation For Goitre, Alleged Proved Fatal to Woman

The city of Brainerd is faced with a $7,500 damage suit in connection with the death of Mrs. Celia Schwendeman, on August 31st, 1924. Service of the complaint was made upon the city this Monday morning, it being the last day in which to make such service for trial at the November term of the district court. Service was made upon George A. Cain, as mayor of the city of Brainerd.

The case is entitled, Walter F. Schwendeman, as administrator for the estate of Celia Schwendeman, aganist the city of Brainerd, a municipal corporation, and Northwestern Medical and Surgical Association, a corporation, and asks judgment in the sum of $7,500 together with costs and disbursements. Jesse Van Valkenburg, of Minneapolis, is attorney for the plaintiff.

It is alleged in the complaint that on August 31st, 1924, Celia Schwendeman died; that the defendants on that day wrongfully, unlawfully and negligently caused her death.

An operation for the removal of goitre by Dr. Joseph Nicholson was started about 8:30 o'clock on the morning of August 31st, it is alleged, the electric lighting for the operation being furnished by the city and by the hospital. When the operation had progressed for a period of approximately 45 minutes, during which time the neck of Mrs. Schwendeman had been cut, the defendants unexpectedly and wholly without warning, carelessly and negligently shut off and thereafter failed to furnish electric lighting for a period of approximately two hours, the complaint continues.

Dr. Nicholson was compelled to and did stop the operation until lighting was restored by the defendants, which was after the expiration of two hours. The doctor administered an anesthetic for performing this operation, rendering the patient unconscious, and she remained so while the operation was in progress but came out from under its effect while waiting for light to be resumed.

When lighting was resumed at the end of about two hours, the complaint alleges, the anesthetic was again administered, again rendering the patient unconscious; that owing to the nervous shock to Mrs. Schwendeman from the delay of the operation and the necessity of its resumption and the renewing of the anesthetic, she died, and that the carelessness and negligence of the defendants in cutting off the electric lighting without notice or warning was the cause of her death.

The hospital expenses incurred in connection with this operation amount to $31.75, which with the amount of the physician's services to be proven at the time of the trial, are included in the costs that the plaintiff includes in his prayer for judgment in addition to the $7,500 damages.

Walter F. Schwendeman, the administrator, is the husband of the late Mrs. Celia Schwendeman. There are two small children in the family.

METROPOLITAN MIXED QUARTET

Will Appear at Duluth on Friday Evening, Oct. 9, and Brainerd People May Attend

The Brainerd Musical club has received an announcement from Mrs. George S. Richards, of Duluth that she has secured the Metropolitan mixed quartet for an appearance in that city on Friday evening, October 9th, at the new Armory, and extending an invitation to members of the local club to be present.

The quartet is composed of artists from the Metropolitan Opera company, of New York, and is composed of Giovanni Martino, baritone, Carolina Lazzari, contralto, Frances Alda, soprano and Ralph Errolle, tenor. One of the delightful features of their appearance will be the presentation of the entire second act of the opera, "Martha" with costumes and settings.

This will be the first of an all-star course that Mrs. Richards intends to bring to Duluth this season. Among the others appearing during the course will be Will Rogers, humorist; Ronald Hayes, colored tenor; Fritz Kreisler, violinist, and the De Reszke Singers.

Members of the Brainerd Musical club have taken advantage of Mrs. Richards' invitations in the past, and it is expected that a number from this city will make the trip to Duluth on Friday to hear the quartet. Members regret that there is no meeting of the club in the meantime, so that official action might be taken on the invitation.

"THE REJECTION SLIP"

Title of Verses Composed by Miss Islay McColl, Appearing in Minneapolis Journal

Saturday's Minneapolis Journal, on its editorial page, under the heading "What Other People Think" carries a verse by Miss Islay McColl, of Brainerd, a poetess whose lines are gaining favor throughout the Northwest, several of her poems being published in periodicals recently.

Miss McColl's contribution to the Journal is entitled, "The Rejection Slip" and is as follows:

Not always do the fair white envelopes
Return, which, self-addressed and stamped,
I send with little verses made of dreams
To inaccessible magazines;
Not always do they thus return
Sometimes it seems,
Just to test my spirit's courage,
A long, thin envelope will come,
With famous name upon the left-hand corner.
Then with a sort of a weak-kneed happiness,
I close my eyes while from its jagged side
I draw the printed slip—rejection!
Yet sometime will my leaden heart leap joyfully,
For than within that recess, I shall find,—acceptance!

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

Funeral of John Mikkanan, Killed Thursday Evening, is Held at Pine River

The funeral of John Mikkanan, of Pine River, who was killed in an automobile accident late Thursday evening, was held in that village on Sunday afternoon, a large number of friends from Brainerd being in attendance.

Mikkanan with his cousin, David Mikkanan, Ruben Fremling and Mrs. Esther Thompson, all of Pine River, were driving in a Ford touring car on the Pine River-Pillager road when the accident occurred. Mrs. Thompson is said to have been driving and was blinded by the lights from an approaching car. She drove too near the edge of the road and the Ford went into the ditch, turning turtle and landing bottom side up on some logs in the ditch.

When the members of the party were rescued a few minutes later, Mikkanan was dead. The others received minor injuries with the exception of Mrs. Thompson, who is in the hospital, but is expected to be out in a few days. The accident occured several miles south of Pine River. Mikkanan was 23 years of age, and single. He had many friends in Brainerd who will learn of his death with sincere regret.

Rev. M. L. Eversz was appointed pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Brainerd at the annual conference which closed at Fergus Falls on Sunday evening.

Rev. Eversz has been pastor of the Hobart Memorial church of Minneapolis during the last four years, and closed a very successful pastorate there.

When it became certain that there would be a vacancy in the Brainerd church, the district superintendent's first suggestion was that if Rev. Eversz could be secured the congregation would have reasons to be congratulated.

It is expected that the new pastor will be present to conduct services on next Sunday. Rev. E. A. Cooke, the former pastor, has resigned to take over the active management of the Protestant Churches hospital, of Brainerd, formerly the Northwestern hospital.

Norwegian-Danish Men's Club

The Men's club of the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran church will meet in the church parlors this Monday evening at eight o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnson will entertain. All members are urged to be present.

MISSIONARY PAGEANT

Also Display of Foreign Articles Closed Week End Meetings at Presbyterian Church

A rare display of foreign articles and a missionary pageant Friday closed the week-day meetings of the special series of meetings at the Presbyterian church. Miss Alberta Patterson, sister of the pastor, who recently returned from a world tour, had on exhibition a multitude of interesting articles from other countries which she visited, and she told about them, and some of her travel experiences.

A number of young people of the church, dressed in costumes of other lands, presented a missionary pageant portraying the need for helpers in the mission fields. In native costume were people from India, Egypt, China, Siam, Japan, the Near East, and other places.

A family of hand carved elephants, several specimens of beaten brass from India, hand woven scarfs and table linens, hats of varied descriptions, carvings showing modes of travel in China, were but a few of the many interesting things shown. A piece that drew much attention was a stone from King Tut's tomb, and a piece of mummy wrapping many centuries old was another of the interesting articles.

The church was prettily decorated across the entire front with booths containing the exhibits. The Japanese booth was a lattice work affair, overhung with vines, and containing several children and others in Japanese costume.

Miss Patterson received many plaudits from those gathered for the meeting for the splendid evening's picturization. After the meeting was closed, most of those present remained to view the articles more closely and gain further information regarding them from Miss Patterson.

CITY IS DEFENDANT IN $7,500 LAWSUIT

Walter F. Schwendeman Sues City And Co-Defendant Northwestern Medical & Surgical Association

CHARGES FAILURE OF LIGHT

That Physician Was Thus Compelled to Stop Operation For Goitre, Alleged Proved Fatal to Woman

The city of Brainerd is faced with a $7,500 damage suit in connection with the death of Mrs. Celia Schwendeman, on August 31st, 1924. Service of the complaint was made upon the city this Monday morning, it being the last day in which to make such service for trial at the November term of the district court. Service was made upon George A. Cain, as mayor of the city of Brainerd.

The case is entitled, Walter F. Schwendeman, as administrator for the estate of Celia Schwendeman, aganist the city of Brainerd, a municipal corporation, and Northwestern Medical and Surgical Association, a corporation, and asks judgment in the sum of $7,500 together with costs and disbursements. Jesse Van Valkenburg, of Minneapolis, is attorney for the plaintiff.

It is alleged in the complaint that on August 31st, 1924, Celia Schwendeman died; that the defendants on that day wrongfully, unlawfully and negligently caused her death.

An operation for the removal of goitre by Dr. Joseph Nicholson was started about 8:30 o'clock on the morning of August 31st, it is alleged, the electric lighting for the operation being furnished by the city and by the hospital. When the operation had progressed for a period of approximately 45 minutes, during which time the neck of Mrs. Schwendeman had been cut, the defendants unexpectedly and wholly without warning, carelessly and negligently shut off and thereafter failed to furnish electric lighting for a period of approximately two hours, the complaint continues.

Dr. Nicholson was compelled to and did stop the operation until lighting was restored by the defendants, which was after the expiration of two hours. The doctor administered an anesthetic for performing this operation, rendering the patient unconscious, and she remained so while the operation was in progress but came out from under its effect while waiting for light to be resumed.

When lighting was resumed at the end of about two hours, the complaint alleges, the anesthetic was again administered, again rendering the patient unconscious; that owing to the nervous shock to Mrs. Schwendeman from the delay of the operation and the necessity of its resumption and the renewing of the anesthetic, she died, and that the carelessness and negligence of the defendants in cutting off the electric lighting without notice or warning was the cause of her death.

The hospital expenses incurred in connection with this operation amount to $31.75, which with the amount of the physician's services to be proven at the time of the trial, are included in the costs that the plaintiff includes in his prayer for judgment in addition to the $7,500 damages.

Walter F. Schwendeman, the administrator, is the husband of the late Mrs. Celia Schwendeman. There are two small children in the family.

METROPOLITAN MIXED QUARTET

Will Appear at Duluth on Friday Evening, Oct. 9, and Brainerd People May Attend

The Brainerd Musical club has received an announcement from Mrs. George S. Richards, of Duluth that she has secured the Metropolitan mixed quartet for an appearance in that city on Friday evening, October 9th, at the new Armory, and extending an invitation to members of the local club to be present.

The quartet is composed of artists from the Metropolitan Opera company, of New York, and is composed of Giovanni Martino, baritone, Carolina Lazzari, contralto, Frances Alda, soprano and Ralph Errolle, tenor. One of the delightful features of their appearance will be the presentation of the entire second act of the opera, "Martha" with costumes and settings.

This will be the first of an all-star course that Mrs. Richards intends to bring to Duluth this season. Among the others appearing during the course will be Will Rogers, humorist; Ronald Hayes, colored tenor; Fritz Kreisler, violinist, and the De Reszke Singers.

Members of the Brainerd Musical club have taken advantage of Mrs. Richards' invitations in the past, and it is expected that a number from this city will make the trip to Duluth on Friday to hear the quartet. Members regret that there is no meeting of the club in the meantime, so that official action might be taken on the invitation.

"THE REJECTION SLIP"

Saturday's Minneapolis Journal, on its editorial page, under the heading "What Other People Think" carries a verse by Miss Islay McColl, of Brainerd, a poetess whose lines are gaining favor throughout the Northwest, several of her poems being published in periodicals recently.

Miss McColl's contribution to the Journal is entitled, "The Rejection Slip" and is as follows:

Not always do the fair white envelopes
Return, which, self-addressed and stamped,
I send with little verses made of dreams
To inaccessible magazines;
Not always do they thus return
Sometimes it seems,
Just to test my spirit's courage,
A long, thin envelope will come,
With famous name upon the left-hand corner.
Then with a sort of a weak-kneed happiness,
I close my eyes while from its jagged side
I draw the printed slip—rejection!
Yet sometime will my leaden heart leap joyfully,
For than within that recess, I shall find,—acceptance!

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

Funeral of John Mikkanan, Killed Thursday Evening, is Held at Pine River

The funeral of John Mikkanan, of Pine River, who was killed in an automobile accident late Thursday evening, was held in that village on Sunday afternoon, a large number of friends from Brainerd being in attendance.

Mikkanan with his cousin, David Mikkanan, Ruben Fremling and Mrs. Esther Thompson, all of Pine River, were driving in a Ford touring car on the Pine River-Pillager road when the accident occurred. Mrs. Thompson is said to have been driving and was blinded by the lights from an approaching car. She drove too near the edge of the road and the Ford went into the ditch, turning turtle and landing bottom side up on some logs in the ditch.

When the members of the party were rescued a few minutes later, Mikkanan was dead. The others received minor injuries with the exception of Mrs. Thompson, who is in the hospital, but is expected to be out in a few days. The accident occured several miles south of Pine River. Mikkanan was 23 years of age, and single. He had many friends in Brainerd who will learn of his death with sincere regret.

COMMERCIAL PLANES MAKE GRUELLING TEST

MIRACULOUSLY WEATHERED A SEVERE ELECTRICAL STORM SUNDAY AFTERNOON

FORD ALL METAL MONOPLANE LED FIELD OF 15 CONTESTANTS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 5.—(UP) — Fifteen out of 17 commercial airplanes whch left here a week ago on the Ford reliability tour were back at the Ford airport today after successfully completing a gruelling flight of more than 2,000 miles through the middle west.

The competing planes miraculously weathered a severe electrical storm on their Sunday afternoon flight from Cleveland, arriving under exceptionally adverse conditions shortly before dark.

Although speed was a secondary requirement, it was announced that the Ford all-metal monoplane led the field with an average speed of 101.5 miles per hour for the course. A Fokker three engined monoplane registered 98.5 and a Curtiss biplane was clocked in 98.4.

In point of reliability it was announced unofficially that 10 of the entries in the tour successfully completed within the requirements, which included speed and a definite load in proportion to engine displacement.

One machine was wrecked in Missouri and another that left Cleveland on the last leg Sunday was forced down by the storm. No serious damage to pilots was reported at any stage of the flight.

"Polarized" Light and Plants

All plants grow by the action of light, which a substance in their leaves converts into energy. Different species of plants, however, thrive best on different varieties of what we call "light." This really consists of an infinite number of vibrations in the ether, the medium which fills all space, and through which our wireless waves travel. But while in the case of the sun these vibrations run in all directions, the vibrations of moonlight are "polarized" and run in one direction only. This polarized light is best suited for the growth of certain plants, such as, for instance, cucumbers, and indeed, in some experimental farms, light has been artificially polarized for their special benefit. How far the system may be developed we do not yet know, but it is literally true that some plants do grow better in moonlight.—Family Herald.

When Barnum Was Mayor

P. T. Barnum, the circus owner, closed his term as mayor of Bridgeport, Conn., by this address to the common council. He was entertaining a motion to adjourn sine die.

"Now, gentlemen, let us fold our tents like the Arabs and silently steal away, congratulating ourselves that this is the only stealing which has been done by this honorable body."

Barnum's gavel fell and he turned and winked at the councilmen. "Now you are all dead cocks in the pit," he remarked.

Harvey W. Root discovered this and other forgotten incidents of Barnum's term as mayor, which he included in an article upon the great showman in McClure's Magazine.

"Drusilla With A Million" Proves Delightful Entertainment at Lyceum

"Drusilla with a Million," the adaptation of Elizabeth Cooper's popular novel of the same name, proves how beautifully a best seller may be transplanted to the screen if scenario and director co-operate in turning out an artistic and finished job. It has its last showing tonight at the Lyceum theatre.

With Mary Carr in the title role, cast most fortunately as the little old lady, a charity patient in a Home, who suddenly inherits great wealth; and with Priscilla Bonner and Kenneth Harlan bearing the brunt of the interpretation of Love's Young Dream, is crammed with charming comedy, wistful pathos, and drama of the most perfect sort. Seldom if ever has a more powerful scene been staged than that in the courtroom where the frightened little woman is arraigned in defense of her philanthropic work in befriending orphan babies. By all means see it tonight

Tom Mix at Lyceum Tuesday and Wednesday

"Floradora" Revived For Norma Talmadge

Dirtceor Frank Borzage searched all Hollywood for twelve girls who looked like the Gibson girls seen in those famous sketches of 1900. Norma appears with them in a double sextette chorus from "Floradora," the famous old light opera whose "Tell Me Pretty Maiden" will always be a favorite. At New Park theatre next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

WALL STREET IN UNCERTAIN MOOD

New York, Oct. 5.—Speculative circles were in an uncertain mood at the start of the week and this state of mind was reflected in confused price movements in the active stocks.

There was heavy profit taking in stocks like Hudson, General Motors, Ward Baking B and various other leaders of the recent bullish demonstrations.

The manner in which sales were absorbed gave a pretty definite indication that nothing had happened to impair the demand for representative stocks. Recessions in these issues taking in consideration the extent of their advances and further operation for the rise went ahead despite the steady pressure on the market as a whole.

The market closed higher.

COMMERCIAL PLANES MAKE GRUELLING TEST

MIRACULOUSLY WEATHERED A SEVERE ELECTRICAL STORM SUNDAY AFTERNOON

FORD ALL METAL MONOPLANE LED FIELD OF 15 CONTESTANTS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 5.—(UP) — Fifteen out of 17 commercial airplanes which left here a week ago on the Ford reliability tour were back at the Ford airport today after successfully completing a gruelling flight of more than 2,000 miles through the middle west.

The competing planes miraculously weathered a severe electrical storm on their Sunday afternoon flight from Cleveland, arriving under exceptionally adverse conditions shortly before dark.

Although speed was a secondary requirement, it was announced that the Ford all-metal monoplane led the field with an average speed of 101.5 miles per hour for the course. A Fokker three engined monoplane registered 98.5 and a Curtiss biplane was clocked in 98.4.

In point of reliability it was announced unofficially that 10 of the entries in the tour successfully completed within the requirements, which included speed and a definite load in proportion to engine displacement.

One machine was wrecked in Missouri and another that left Cleveland on the last leg Sunday was forced down by the storm. No serious damage to pilots was reported at any stage of the flight.

"Polarized" Light and Plants

All plants grow by the action of light, which a substance in their leaves converts into energy. Different species of plants, however, thrive best on different varieties of what we call "light." This really consists of an infinite number of vibrations in the ether, the medium which fills all space, and through which our wireless waves travel. But while in the case of the sun these vibrations run in all directions, the vibrations of moonlight are "polarized" and run in one direction only. This polarized light is best suited for the growth of certain plants, such as, for instance, cucumbers, and indeed, in some experimental farms, light has been artificially polarized for their special benefit. How far the system may be developed we do not yet know, but it is literally true that some plants do grow better in moonlight.—Family Herald.

When Barnum Was Mayor

P. T. Barnum, the circus owner, closed his term as mayor of Bridgeport, Conn., by this address to the common council. He was entertaining a motion to adjourn sine die.

"Now, gentlemen, let us fold our tents like the Arabs and silently steal away, congratulating ourselves that this is the only stealing which has been done by this honorable body."

Barnum's gavel fell and he turned and winked at the councilmen. "Now you are all dead cocks in the pit," he remarked.

Harvey W. Root discovered this and other forgotten incidents of Barnum's term as mayor, which he included in an article upon the great showman in McClure's Magazine.

Italy and Florida

The climate of the northern part of Italy resembles that of Florida. The mean annual temperature varies from 61 degrees Fahrenheit to 64 degrees Fahrenheit. The mean summer temperature does not exceed 80 degrees Fahrenheit. The rainfall occurs mostly in the fall and winter months.

Classy Trio in Artistic Pose

"Drusilla With A Million" Proves Delightful Entertainment at Lyceum

"Drusilla with a Million," the adaptation of Elizabeth Cooper's popular novel of the same name, proves how beautifully a best seller may be transplanted to the screen if scenario and director co-operate in turning out an artistic and finished job. It has its last showing tonight at the Lyceum theatre.

With Mary Carr in the title role, cast most fortunately as the little old lady, a charity patient in a Home, who suddenly inherits great wealth; and with Priscilla Bonner and Kenneth Harlan bearing the brunt of the interpretation of Love's Young Dream, is crammed with charming comedy, wistful pathos, and drama of the most perfect sort. Seldom if ever has a more powerful scene been staged than that in the courtroom where the frightened little woman is arraigned in defense of her philanthropic work in befriending orphan babies. By all means see it tonight.

Tom Mix at Lyceum Tuesday and Wednesday

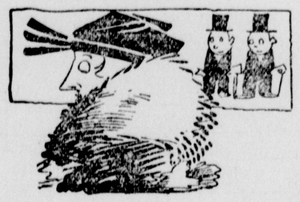

The ever popular Tom Mix will be seen at the Lyceum tomorrow and Wednesday in "Teeth" a story of love and Western adventure with man and beast. Tony the wonder horse and Duke the dog play a big part in this new Western picture, which is sure to pack the Lyceum.

"Floradora" Revived For Norma Talmadge

Dirtceor Frank Borzage searched all Hollywood for twelve girls who looked like the Gibson girls seen in those famous sketches of 1900. Norma appears with them in a double sextette chorus from "Floradora," the famous old light opera whose "Tell Me Pretty Maiden" will always be a favorite. At New Park theatre next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

ABBREVIATED THOUGHT

"What do you think she could have been thinking of when she cut off her hair?"

"Why, of cutting off a few years from her age, I suspect."

Fairly Met

Better look out for me," warned the flirt. "You know I am a grass widow." "Oh, that's all right," replied the sophisticated male. "I am known the human lawn mower."
